Announcement.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT-SENTINEL:—
I hereby announce my name for the nomination of Inferiary Director of Hoeking County at the Democratic primary election
MARTIN NUTTER.

Death of Gorman.

Arthur P. Gorman, the noted Democratic Senator from Maryland, died Monday. With his passing, this country loses one of the greatest minds of the age. From a Page in the Senate to a leader on the floor. Poor and honest, he met the hard knocks of the world that shaped his life for the benefit of the common people. He was a great man and his going out from among us breaks the ranks of the army for the common people; the gap thus made will be hard to close with his equal.

Merited Recognition.

Governor Pattison last week appointed Editor J. W. Johnson of Waverly, to the office of State Printer. This step on the part of Governor Pattison is certainly to be commended. There is not a nobler or more deserving man in Ohio than our old friend Johnson. A right man in the right place. The present State Official, Mark Slater, is acting up a little and says he will not give up his office until he is convinced that Governor Pattison personally signed Johnson's commission. Well, Secretary Houck will convince that gentleman most thoroughly and then lead him to the front door and kick him out. Slater is one of those little pups that wants to be noticed, even if he has to be kicked.

Trickery and Broken Promises.

Editor McKay Tells Some Plain Tales About His Party.

Can a political party or can any business succeed by trickery and broken promises? That is the question now before the Republicans of this county for solution. A few weeks ago a Republican who has been with the opposite faction was approached by Mr. E. D. Ricketts with the suggestion of a compromise between the two factions in this county. After a few preliminary meetings were held and nothing resulted, another meeting was arranged for and at that meeting E. D. Ricketts, John F. White, W. W. Keynes, Dr. O. S. Wood and the editor of The Journal-Gazette were present. A final proposition was made to Messrs. White and Ricketts who claimed to represent their side and it was this: That there be a division of 28 precincts each side to have 14 committeemen; the executive committee to be equally divided, one side to have chairman of central committee and the other side the secretary. The same division was to be made in the executive committee and ten delegates to the state convention were to be selected, five from each side and each delegate to have one half vote. At this meeting Mr. Ricketts suggested that Dr. Wood be chairman of the central committee and Mr. White said: "I have no doubt but that will be perfectly agreeable to our fellows." This proposition was not accepted, Mr. White saying that in a fight they could elect more than half of the central committeemen in the county and the meeting adjourned sine die.

The following morning early Mr. White came to Keynes Brother's mills and informed Mr. Keynes that they had thought over the matter and changed their minds and would accept the proposition. It was agreed as to the division of precincts. Afterwards Mr. Ricketts asked that they have Laurelville and later Murray was conceded to them in exchange for two others. The agreement was further made that if candidates insisted on running and were elected different from the arrangement when the committee met there could easily be resignations and the matter worked out satisfactorily. It happened that in the division made there were two precincts on each side that had gone opposite to the agreed plan and it made the matter very easy of solution. When this agreement was made it was also agreed that there would be no requirement to candidates to file a notice with the committee as had been required in the call, and in fact what was to have been an election could not be termed one. We doubt if there were 200 voters present in the entire county. In the four wards in Logan but 15 persons were present, we are informed. It was not a contest. It was an agreement entered into upon the part of the chairman of the "square deal" committee and his friends with no other thought or expectation that it would be kept and carried out. There was no disposition to take any advantage, and in two precincts where there were contests, it was a local matter, and our people advised the other side and offered two other precincts in their stead, or anything to carry out the matter in a harmonious way. This is the statement of the facts leading up to the meeting last Saturday when there was a complete shattering of every promise made by Mr. White and Mr. Ricketts. Two committeemen who were fairly elected were counted out: three precincts whose committeemen were not present were declared vacant and out of the 28 committeemen in the county six or seven were conceded to one side and the firm of White & Ricketts took about 22. L. W. Hall was elected chairman instead of Dr. Wood as agreed upon, and Messrs White and Ricketts saw that they had plenty on the executive committee and state delegation to control both, and to make real sure took the secretary of the central committee along with the chairman. This committee of the firm of White & Ricketts will stay in power two years, according to a statement of Mr. White in the meeting, so that there will be no need to meet and perpetuate itself next May. Its owners gave it authority last Saturday.

The Journal-Gazette made an announcement of the compromise arrangement and went into it in good faith. When Mr. White and Mr. Ricketts broke it there was no arrangement. The Journal-Gazette recognizes the committee elected last August, which was elected by the votes of over 1200 Republicans, for on the 12th of May there was no election; when the majority of votes defeats and the minority elects what would you call it. The selection of committeemen was not by election but by agreement. The agreement was broken and it was not broken by the friends of The Journal-Gazette. It was done by men breaking their promises. It was one of the grossest pieces of trickery in recent years in the tangled jungle of crooked politics in Hoeking. It was done by the men who claim to be the leaders in this county, the men who have the county in their vest pockets—when they are away from home. It was done because John F. White could not this year, as he could not last year, carry this county in a fair election. It simply shows the people again that he prefers to play crooked politics rather than straight politics and his new pupil E. D. Ricketts is very apt in picking up the art in which his instructor is so proficient. We said we would favor the proposition if it was carried out as it might have a tendency to bring us nearer harmony. It was broken, and it was ruthlessly broken but not by the square deal people. We apologize to our Republican readers that we countenanced it for a moment. Hereafter we will deal with men whose promise amounts to something. There must be a new deal if we expect success. Trickery cannot triumph; the people will right the wrongs some place and some how!

Crooked politics lost Hoeking to the Republicans last fall and early in the year we again have an exhibi-

How Would You Like to be the Queen.

Last Wednesday in Madrid a princess became the bride of a king, acquiring thereby the right to sit beside him on the throne, to have the entire nation to bow the knee in servitude. In the midst of unprecedented magnificence she was wedded in the grand old cathedral, while jewels sparkled and thousands of flowers gave out their perfume in her homage. Cannons boomed and flags were unfurled from every tower throughout Spain. There was a solemn pageant of priests and grandees through the streets of the Spanish capital.

But the scene of rejoicing was changed to one of bloodshed within the hour, and the princess-queen was carried back to her husband's palace through a pathway of blood, and over a pile of mangled human bodies, a cowering and frightened thing, even before she had ascended the throne.

I wonder how many American girls would like to change places with Ena today.

Reading of this royal marriage with its pomp and splendor takes one's mind back to a marriage that took place last February, when another "princess" became the bride of a king. To be sure she was only called "Princess Alice" by courtesy, but after all she had the homage of 80,000,000 loving subjects, all of whom wished for her nothing but happiness for this young girl who was taking the vows of wifehood.

Her husband was king, not because he was the scion of a dying race of royalty, but because every man is a king in this country.

The young people went on their honeymoon amidst the best wishes of thousands of people who, deep down in their hearts, hoped they would be really and truly happy. Nobody even thought of a bomb. Everybody felt good natured in the happiness of the newly-wedded pair, and wished them a long life, full of joy. The couple went on a short trip and then settled down, just like old married folks.

And yet everywhere, the young Princess Alice goes, she is shown the same adulation that will be shown the new Spanish queen. At foreign courts she will be loved—genuinely loved—because she is representative of the American girl, every one of whom is a princess. Because she is a typical American, her husband will be honored wherever he goes, not with the empty honor that consists of bowing the head and bending the knee, but genuine honor that comes from the heart. And wherever they go the haunting fear of a bomb or a dagger will not follow them.

But what of this other bride, this princess, now a queen, this bride of an untired and nerve-racked ruler of a decrepit and discredited monarchy? She knows that on his shoulders rests the burden of keeping a rotten government together a few years longer—a government that is reeking with anarchy and disloyalty. This task will fill his soul with the worry that kills love, worry that is enough to eat out the heart and spirit of any young man. This is an awful price to pay—a terrible chance to take for the privilege of being queen.

If Alphonso had enjoyed the inestimable benefit of being born a plain young American he would have known that his nation would have helped him, instead of being a burden to him. He would have had eighty millions of subjects, all of them his equals, and nearly all of them good fellows. He could have gone to sleep every night, with the knowledge that he would wake up whole, instead of in pieces. His wife could walk the streets of the capital, secure in knowing that she would return home alive. She could, if she wished, be allowed to attend bargain sales without first asking the court chamberlains if she might.

No, this being the wife of a king is really not worth wishing for. It's all very nice to dream of being a queen, sitting upon a throne, holding a sceptre in the right hand and wearing a diamond crown. But sceptres are uncomfortable things, and crowns are not becoming to the average girl. It is better, far better to be a plain everyday American princess.

Alphonso and Ena, when the anarchists make it too hot for you over in Spain, as they surely will, put your crowns and your ermine robes in moth balls and come to America, and be plain everyday citizens. You will have just as good a time as you are having now, we will promise you.

bition of the same kind, if anything a little more crooked.

Who wants harmony in Hoeking? Certainly not the men who count central committeemen out who have been fairly and honestly elected.

Ward township Republicans believe in a "square deal" and they say they will have it. Well, things have been conducted on the crooked plan long enough for us all to get upon a basis where every man is fairly treated. The Journal-Gazette will hail the arrival of that day.

David Bryan, charged with wife-beating, was arrested by Constable Joe Collins, at his home in Greendale, last week. At his trial before Squire Lappen he was found guilty, and fined ten dollars and cost, with sixty days in the work-house.

The first team of Union Furnace was defeated by a scrub aggregation, on the morning of Decoration Day, twelve to two; the scrubs lost in the afternoon by a score of fifteen to eight.

Mr. and Mrs. David Groye, of Lancaster, spent a few days here with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grove, returning Monday.

Don't fail to see "Hamlet," June 15th at Remp Opera House. You will always regret it if you neglect this rare opportunity. Seats reserved Monday, June 11th. Tickets 50 cent.

Mr. Walter Hartman, son of Martin Hartman, of Logan, graduated Tuesday from Grant Law School, at Chattanooga, Tennessee. The young man has the congratulation of all who know him, on his successful termination of a fight for an education, with the odds against him.

Misses Goldie Martin and Esther Cook were delegates from here to the Lancaster District Convention of the Epworth League, held at Rushville, Tuesday evening and Wednesday. Others who attended from Logan were Rev. T. B. White, Prof. Silverthorn, Misses Ruth Brooke, Minnie and Sarah Moore, and Blanche Moorehead, and Mr. Will Brooke.

WALTER HARTMAN

Graduated in Law in Tennessee.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 28, '06
Dear Uncle Joe:

Well, here I am writing you the promised letter. You may no doubt be surprised, but it is the time of the year when our thoughts are turned to the boys in blue and a prayer for the boys in gray.

I have witnessed some impressive ceremonies since I have been here, and thank fortune that my steps have led me here where some of the most noted battles in history were fought.

On May 10th., the Confederates held their memorial services and while, at first, it seemed to me an injury to our national pride, still in my quiet moments I could not help but pity those who strewed flowers over the pit where lie so many of their dear ones in unmarked graves, and thought surely, that we could, at least, permit their memories to be kept green by old sweethearts.

Yesterday at the Jewish Synagogue both blue and gray paid tributes to the dead, and I wish that I might be with you to say a few words in tribute to the men who were your enemies once and also to the boys at home.

Enclosed you will find a clipping which explains the exercises of the 27th.

One thing they did not mention, and I will try to explain in a few words.

As you will notice the blue and gray marched side by side, but here is the feature I want to explain. At the head of the procession a Johnnie carried a floral design representing the flag of Dixie and by his side a good old Yankee carried an emblem of the National flag, also a floral design. After the ceremonies of tribute to the dead they marched to the center of the bridge and to the strains of "America" both flags were dropped together striking the water at the same time and as far as we could see them they were side by side gliding over the water where so many boys lost their lives. Truly a most impressive ceremony, and one never to be forgotten. Other flowers were also thrown in until the river was one solid mass of flowers. I wish all of you could have been here to note the good feeling between both sides, and it is well that it is so, for the time is not far distant when the "taps" will be blown by the trumpeter and both blue and gray will join the shadowy ranks across that river where all is quiet and no sound of the bugle will disturb their slumbers and where all is peace. Have your chaplain to remember them in his prayer, Uncle Joe, and help to seal tighter and tighter the bonds which are now uniting you all.

On May 30th., I expect to witness the grandest sight of my life out "On Fame's Eternal Camping Grounds"—The National Cemetery.

Sometimes I wonder how so many lived after the rush on the mountain and also on the steep sides of Missionary Ridge.

I will graduate here on June 6th. Last Friday and Saturday we had one of the hardest bar examinations ever held in Tennessee, and you may be sure, that, like the boys of '61-'65, I came out with colors flying.

Give all old comrades my deepest respect to their memory, and since I have seen the places of their struggles and hardships, and in my mind's eye have seen their army moving over the valley between Lookout Mt., and Missionary Ridge, and again on Kelly's Field at Chickamauga, it will be with deeper respect and more pride for the G. A. R. that I will lift my hat when "taps" are sounded again on May 30th., at The National Cemetery.

May you live and enjoy many more happy days is my fondest wish. Sincerely Yours

Walter T. J. Hartman.

ODD FELLOWS MEMORIAL

Senator Houck Makes a Masterful Address.

On Sunday Hoeking Valley Lodge of Odd Fellows together with the auxiliary lodge of Rebekas held their memorial day. In the forenoon they attended church in a body, being there addressed by Rev. Wilson in a most excellent sermon.

In the afternoon the graves of deceased brothers and sisters were decorated, and the memorial address was listened to at the Presbyterian church. The speaker was Senator Louis Houck of Mt. Vernon, who is now Governor Pattison's most faithful private secretary. Mr. Houck is Grand Warden in Oddfellowship and his address to the lodges and friends on this occasion was one of the most eloquent and earnest efforts we have had the pleasure to listen to in many years. Mr. Houck is a most pleasing and most captivating speaker. For one hour and a half his audience scarcely moved to breathe while he spoke. He is in thorough harmony with his subject, that of the elevation of mankind. God fearing, christian gentleman that gave his hearers some thoughts to carry away, that should make them better men and better women.

Later Mr. Houck gave the lodges a heart-to-heart talk in the lodge room, that was received with much enthusiasm. From lip to lip you could but hear on the streets everybody talking of the eloquent address of Mr. Houck, and those that heard him were delighted, and the absent regretful. We certainly hope Mr. Houck will come to Logan soon again and address our people. He has won a warm place in the hearts of all.

CHANGES MADE IN RATE BILL

Senator Foraker Contends the Same Is New Matter.

CRITICISES THE CONFEREES

Temper of the Senators Makes it Certain the Measure Will Be Returned to Conference—Naval Appropriation and Naturalization Bills Passed—Washington Matters.

Washington, June 6.—During the consideration by the senate of the conference report on the railroad rate bill Mr. Foraker indicated a purpose to insist upon an explanation of the change made by the conferees in including lateral or branch lines among those upon whose request common carriers shall be required to put in switches or switch connections. Senator Tillman had explained amendments on which he thought it possible points of order could be made because of the presence of new matter, but had not included the amendment in question. When Mr. Tillman expressed the opinion that the conferees had not transgressed their authority in this matter the Ohio senator dissented, saying the suggestion had been made in the senate and had been voted down and that it was clearly new matter. He therefore thought the senate should be told why the change had been made. Senator Tillman replied it was because of "the tyrannical and outrageous conduct of the trunk lines, in such cases as that of the Red Rock company in West Virginia."

Mr. Tillman expressed the opinion that the only conference change against which a point of order will lie is that extending for sixty days the time when the rate bill shall go into operation. That he conceded, was clearly out of order, but he said it had seemed necessary in view of the general confusion that follows an effort to carry the bill into immediate effect. Senator Foraker criticized the conferees on account of the new matter, saying that the conferees were not legislators, but mere intermediaries. He also objected to the change in the anti-pass provision, making especial complaint of the elimination of the railroad employees from the privilege of free transportation. Mr. Foraker found fault with the amendment prohibiting discrimination for or against passengers on account of color. He said several negroes had complained of the provision as a recognition of the "Jim Crow" laws of the south, but such had not been the intention, the only purpose being to secure proper treatment for all where the "Jim Crow" system prevailed.

The senate passed the naval appropriation bill, which carries a total of $102,117,670. The only important amendment made to the naval bill was one requiring the secretary of the navy to submit the plans of the proposed big warship to congress before proceeding with its construction.
